Meditation & Prayer

Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

OUR CONFESSION - NEW HAMPSHIRE 1833

VI. Of the Freeness of Salvation - We believe that the blessings of salvation are made free to all by the gospel; that it is the immediate duty of all to accept them by a cordial penitent, and obedient faith; and that nothing prevents the salvation of the greatest sinner on earth, but his own inherent depravity and voluntary rejection of the gospel; which rejection involves him in an aggravated condemnation.

Coram Deo (living before the face of God)

"The most important lesson for us to realize is that if a great man like David could not successfully manage his life without a close walk with a Savior, how much greater is our need. David desperately needed the power and grace of God in his life, and so do we. We should therefore look above and beyond any earthly salvation to the only true Savior who has come from heaven, God's Son, Jesus Christ. David was an anointed king who suffered but could not save. He sheds his tears of grief over his failure and sin. But David's imperfect, failed love for Absalom points us to "the perfect love of Christ for sinners such as ourselves. . . . There is hope. There is good news for sinners. Jesus saves!" ~ Richard D. Phillips (Reformed Expository Commentary.)
